PRINCIPALITY
OF  MONACO

Memorable Moments

How better to express an appetite for living... than through the myriad of flavours of a constantly evolving 'cuisine' with a myriad of flavours?

Standing at the crossroads of Mediterranean and European civilizations, Monaco is an international destination where cultures from all over the world meet. The Principality values these ever-present cultural exchanges, the freedom and quality of its gastronomy and the variety and inventiveness of its cooking. Classic French cuisine, harmonies of the south, ethnic and exotic variations: only monotony has no place at a Monegasque table!

Renowned for its restaurants, Monaco is also famous for its outstanding nightlife and for all those spots where conviviality, celebration and relaxation are to be found. Every evening, Monaco invites you to let loose your imagination: to live strong emotions and unforgettable moments.

* Classified Restaurants

◆ to ◆◆◆◆◆L

Ministerial Order n° 2011-39 of 25 January 2011 laid down the standards for the classification of the Principality's restaurants, dividing them into categories which take account of the amenities and level of comfort of the establishment.

Each of these categories is represented by a certain number of lozenges, from one to five, in ascending order - five being luxury - according to the comfort of the establishment.

The Principality, though small, is home to many fine restaurants and talented chefs who nourish the imagination and lead the diner on a hedonistic journey. The renowned Alain Ducasse and Joël Robuchon have put their talents at the service of gastronomic pleasures. Enchanted settings and refined and inventive cooking cannot fail to satisfy the most discerning palates: let your senses surprise you!

Starred Restaurants^{*} in Monaco

 From The Michelin Guide 2011.*

Le Louis XV ★★★

It was in this major gastronomic centre that Alain Ducasse got his first three Michelin stars. At the heart of the Hôtel de Paris, in a setting of stucco and gilded panelling, the Head Chef, Franck Cerutti, delights the most discerning taste buds. Sample the best of Mediterranean produce, brought out by skill and talent.

Morue à la Monegasque*

by Chief Joël Garault

Morue is salted cod, while stockfish is simply dried. The preparation is different, but just as tasty.

Preparation

- Cut the salted cod into large pieces, place in a saucepan, cover with water and heat to simmering. Skim and poach for approximately 12 minutes uncovered.
- In a kettle or frying pan, heat the olive oil, add the finely minced onions and leek whites, simmering very gently.
- Peel and seed the tomatoes, crush the clove of garlic, prepare the bouquet garni and throw them all into the kettle along with two pinches of freshly ground pepper. Cover and cook approximately 12 minutes.
- Add the potatoes, sliced. Cover completely with hot water and cook for approximately 15 minutes, according to the type of potato.
- Remove the skin and bones from the fish, shred the flesh and spread over the cooked potatoes, add the pitted black olives; simmer approximately 15 minutes.
- Remove the bouquet garni, add a pinch of saffron, and a spoonful of chopped parsley. Serve after rectifying the seasoning, if necessary.
- In the Monegasque tradition, the salted cod is served in the cooking vessel, preferably an earthenware pignata.

Ingredients (for 6 to 8 people)

- 1.3 kg salted cod (soaked in water, changed often, to remove the salt)
- 10 tablespoons of olive oil
- 2 onions, 100 g
- 2 leek whites
- 8 ripe tomatoes
- 1 clove of garlic
- 1 bouquet garni (parsley, thyme, bay leaf, celery)
- 1 kg potatoes (firm, not too starchy)
- 1 handful of black olives
- pepper, saffron, salt.

Wine suggestion

AOC Bandol white: golden yellow color, this wine is rich and distinctive for the hint of yellow flowers. The perfect partner for this rustic dish.
